THE DEATHS OF A DAY

A Christian Life Ended in the Death of Mrs. Addie Morton.

Death of Mr. Clyde Reep at the Illinois Central Hospital Last Evening.

MRS. CREEMENS IS DEAD

Mrs. Addie Morton, one of Paducah's oldest residents and most respected Christian ladies, died at 2:45 o'clock this morning after an illness of three months at her home on Broadway near Sixth street.

The deceased was born in Elkton, Ky., on October 27, sixty-five years ago, and when quite young moved to Nashville with her parents. Her maiden name was Miss Addie Greenfield, and she frequently visited Paducah, where she met and married Mr. Thomas W. Morton, a prominent dry goods merchant long since dead.

Mrs. Morton had been a resident of Paducah for the past forty years and was loved for her many admirable Christian traits. Her life had been one that was well worthy of emulation, and in her death the city loses one of its most earnest Christian ladies. She had been a member of the Broadway Methodist church for forty years or more, and was an active Christian until her last illness.

She leaves to mourn her loss four children, Misses Susan, Adine and Cherry Morton and Mr. Thomas Morton, all of the city, and two step-children, Mr. Gabe Morton, of St. Louis, one of the officials of the Mexican Central Railroad, and Miss Mollie Morton, of the city.

She also leaves two brothers, Messrs. Robert Greenfield, of Nashville, and Mr. Wesley Greenfield, Lorado, Texas. The former is now here and the other is expected tomorrow. She also leaves a niece, Miss Rebecca Allen, whom she raised.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the family residence, services by Rev. G. W. Briggs, and interment at Oak Grove. All friends are invited.

Mr. Clyde Reep, aged 18, son of Conductor Harvey Reep, died at 5 o'clock last evening at the Illinois Central hospital from diabetes. The young man was reared in Paducah and well thought of by all who knew him. He had been a flagman for the Illinois Central for sometime past. His father formerly worked for the company here, but has for several months past been working south, and he and his wife arrived yesterday to be at the bedside of their son.

The funeral will take place at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home of his aunt at 1213 Monroe street, burial at Oak Grove.

The funeral of Mr. Joseph Kehl, who died on an Illinois Central train yesterday morning while on his way home from Paducah, will take place tomorrow at Louisville. The coroner viewed the remains when the train reached Louisville and decided the deceased died of cardiac paralysis, following dysentery.

The funeral of the late Mr. Joe Seebree took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence at Sixth and Madison streets, Revs. G. W. Briggs and W. H. Pinkerton officiating. The pall bearers were: Messrs. George Jacobs, Harry Ashbrook, Robert Noble, Ernest Pell, Edward Pearson and J. W. Sherrell.

Mrs. Sarah Creemens, aged 52, died of inflammation of the stomach last night at her home at Sixth and Terrell streets. The remains were shipped to Junction City, Ill., for burial.

LEASES WAREHOUSE.

Mr. Michael Griffin, to whom was let the contract for furnishing tobacco to the Italian government, has leased one of the Western District warehouses and will use it in connection with his new work for the next year. Mr. Griffin has not yet decided whether he will resign as salesman and general manager for the Western District company on account of his new duties or not.

WEEK'S NEWS IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

Same week last year 459,065

The bank clearings this week show a nice increase over the same week of last year. Business is good and earnings holding up well. Demands for money are good with good deposits

THE TOWN COW.

SHE WISHES HALLOWEEN CAME EVERY NIGHT IN PADUCAH.

The town cow took the city last night and this morning the yards of several of the most prominent citizens looked as if they had been visited by a cyclone.

The boys played havoc with gates last night in celebration of Halloween and left the yards at the mercy of the cows. Several citizens awoke this morning to find from one to half a dozen cows in their yards and all the flowers and plants destroyed by them. The Halloween parties, composed of boys, in pursuance to the usual custom, unhinged gates and carried them away. Many gates are missing this morning and some have been hung on telegraph poles as high as 20 feet. The yards being thrown open, the cows wasted no time in entering and charging on all the flowers in sight.

Mr. Saunders Fowler's yard was visited by four cows and also was Mr. Wm. Rollin's.

—Many pretty new ideas in millinery on display next week at Mrs. Cora Williams Clark's.

HEALTH REPORT.

SOME INTERESTING STATISTICS BEING PREPARED BY DR. GRAVES.

Dr. Graves, the health officer, stated this morning that he had about finished his report on the local death rate but would not give it to the public before the water filtration plant question was settled.

It is admitted that the death rate is smaller this year, as far as the year has gone, than that of the past several years, but Dr. Graves thinks that with the filtering plant in operation, that better water would be furnished the city and the death rate would in this way be greatly decreased. It is understood that a comparison will be drawn upon the health of those using the Ohio river water as it is furnished at present and those who furnish their own filters and also those who drink well and will fully and clearly outline all his illustrations and make as good and impartial report as possible.

Confirmation ceremonies were held in the St. Francis De Sales church this morning and a large class was confirmed.

Bishop McCloskey, of Louisville, officiated, assisted by Rev. Father Jansen, and this afternoon went to Fancy Farm to confirm a class there. There was a class of 60 to be confirmed here but all were not of Paducah, a number being from other districts in Bishop McCloskey's diocese. Today is "All Saints' Day" and a general holiday in the church, but as the Bishop was here the confirmation ceremonies were held today. "All Saints' Day" is the day set aside to commemorate the Saints and tomorrow is "All Souls' Day." Generally the members march to the cemetery and hold the so vices there.

BIG CLASS CONFIRMED.

BISHOP McCLOSKEY OFFICIATED AT THE SERVICES HERE TODAY.

This is the first visit Bishop McCloskey has paid this section to hold confirmation ceremonies in about four years and it was quite an event in the church.

PUMPKIN PIE SOCIAL.

The Knights of Pythias are to give a pumpkin pie social Monday night in their hall in Campbell building. It is to be a unique affair designed for the entertainment of the members and their friends, and pumpkin pie will be one of the principal things served. A program will be rendered and a pleasant evening is assured all.

WITH THE RAILROAD

Change of the Car Inspecting Force of the I. C.

A New Station Opened at Woodstock, Tenn., and There Is Big Business Everywhere.

OTHER NEWS OF THE RAILS

A change will soon be made in the car inspecting forces of the Illinois Central here, within the next week probably. Messrs. George Richardson and John Moore, inspectors in the new train yards, will go to the wood-working shops and Mr. Thomas Bennett, a well known car inspector of the city, will be placed in charge of the two gangs of inspectors that were formerly under Messrs. Moore and Richardson. For some time there have been two forces of inspectors, and the project of combining the two under one foreman or chief inspector, had been under consideration for the past several weeks. It is thought that better results will come from the new arrangement and it will be tried for a few months.

Dr. J. G. Murrell, the assistant chief surgeon of the Illinois Central road, who has just returned after a three months trip abroad, says that he had many amusing experiences but got "stuck" comparatively few times. He had a Cecilian dollar passed off on him in Paris, France, for a considerable greater amount than it was worth, and could not even get 50 cents for it afterwards, although the silver in the coin was well worth that amount. A friend of the physician's purchased the coin yesterday afternoon for 75 cents and the doctor thinks it a good bargain. He gave originally $2.50 for the dollar. Dr. Murrell brought back many curios, having a large dry goods box full.

Notices have been received here to the effect that a night telegraph station will today be established at Woodstock, Tenn., a station on the Illinois Central. The railroad company has found it necessary within the past few months to establish several night stations for the benefit of the trainmen, so rapid is the increase in freight traffic.

Flagman William Gipson is out again after a several days' illness. Mr. Gipson is stationed at the Illinois Central and Tennessee street crossing and had not been ill or absent from his post of duty for many months. His many friends will be pleased to learn of his recovery.

It is said that there are more trains running between Memphis and Fulton on the Illinois Central than any other division of the road. Hardly a switch is passed on that end that is not occupied by a waiting freight train.

Dr. Cooley, one of the local Illinois Central surgeons, will leave today for St. Louis to remain two days.

NO DECISION YET.

RUMORED THE DECISION OF JUDGE LIGHTFOOT WILL BE AGAINST HEALTH BOARD.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot said this morning that he had been so busy for the past several days that he had been unable to think about the Theo Luttrell case, involving compulsory vaccination in the county.

The case was brought to test the vaccination law and was tried more than a week ago. Judge Lightfoot set Thursday the day for rendering a decision but was unable to do so. He said that he will not decide the case today, but will do so at the earliest opportunity, when he has had time to consider all points. It is tipped that he will decide it against the board of health.

GOT DRUNK AGAIN.

F. J. Curley was arrested this morning by Officers Potter and Gourieux for being drunk and disorderly. Curley was arrested several days ago for drunkenness and given two hours to leave the city. As he turned up again he will probably be given a sentence to serve on the chain gang at hard labor.

Mayfield Girl Finishes a Long Trip—News from All Over the District.

NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Mayfield, Nov. 1.—A suit was filed in circuit court here yesterday by J. E. Mason of Hickory Grove against Dr. W. S. Hargrove for $5,000 damages. The suit grew out of a difficulty that occurred Thursday. The petition alleges that "the defendant Hargrove assaulted him on a public street in Hickory Grove on October 30, 1902, and without warning caught in the collar and struck him a heavy and severe blow upon the face and beat him in a most violent, cruel and malicious manner, so that he says he was compelled to employ medical attention at a great expense. He also says he was greatly humiliated and suffered great anguish of mind as well as pain of body and still suffers, and he therefore prays to the court to grant him a judgment of $5,000 damages against the defendant." Both parties in the suit are prominent and substantial citizens of the county.

TOOK A LONG TRIP.

Mayfield, Nov. 1.—Miss Davey Watson Dismukes, aged 5 years, left the city October 15 for Riverside, Cal., and made the trip all by herself, reaching there October 22. Her mother was in Riverside, and she went there to meet her.

Fulton, Ky., Nov. 1.—A fire destroyed the residence of Mark Campbell at 7:30 o'clock last night and burned out several telephone and light wires.

OPPOSED TO FOOTBALL.

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 1.—A resolution condemning football was adopted by the Cumberland Presbyterian synod in session here.

CIRCUIT COURT

ANOTHER CASE GIVEN TO THE JURY TODAY.

The case of Rachel Davis against the Paducah Railway and Light company case went to the jury this morning.

The plaintiff is a colored woman who was going to attend a celebration at La Belle park on the 8th of August. The car was crowded and electricity began to flash. The people tried to vacate the car and in doing so pushed her out and knocked her down, trampling her under foot. She was sorely bruised and damaged to the extent of $10,000, she claims. The case was argued this morning.

The suit of Mrs. A. J. Doolin against the city of Paducah was set for the fifteenth day. She is a huckster who claims to have paid rent for a market house bench and that the city refused to let her use it.

An order was made in the Norman, Myles and Company against T. Herndon and others suit requiring the plaintiff to appear before Monday and show why they should not produce letters in the case. The suit is over a tobacco advance of about $1,000.

Miss Cora Hollaud was appointed an examiner on motion of Attorney J. C. Flournoy.

The jury in the case of Ferriman against the Sodenheimer Lumber company for alleged violation of contract returned a verdict yesterday afternoon for $250.

In the case of I. W. Bernheim against Frances Macher, a judgment for the sale of property was filed for the plaintiff.

"THE LITTLE MINISTER."

POST-OFFICE FIGURES

Kentucky is Near the Front Ranks in Fourth Class Offices.

Only Four First Class Offices in the State—Report Just Issued.

The annual report of the fourth assistant postmaster general just issued at Washington shows that 45 presidential postmasters were appointed in the state of Kentucky during the fiscal year ending June 30 last. Of this number 37 were to fill vacancies caused by expiration of commissions, seven to fill vacancies caused by offices being advanced to the presidential class and one owing to the death of a postmaster.

The number of fourth-class postmasters who resigned was 460, removed 68, deceased 35, offices established 186, offices discontinued 100. The number of first class postoffices in the state is four, second class 14, third class 56. There are 3,190 fourth class postoffices in the state of Kentucky, 593 being money order offices and 2,597 being non money order offices.

As the number of presidential postoffices in a state is regarded by the postoffice department officials as a good index of the industry and commercial activity of its people, the tale on this subject is of interest. New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois, the three first states in point of population also have the same order of rank in the number of presidential office.

Iowa, however, the eleventh state in population, is the fourth state in presidential offices. Kentucky, which ranks twelfth in population, stands eighteenth in the number of presidential postoffices.

Kentucky ranks third in the number of fourth class postoffices, the average compensation of the fourth class postmaster in that state being $101.59. Kentucky, with 3,264 postoffices, shows gross receipts of $1,635,613.78 during the last fiscal year. The average amount expended per capita was 74 cents, the state ranking 43 out of 53 in this respect.

JOKE ON POTTER

THE COW CAME HOME TO DIE, BUT WAS SAVED.

Councilman Joe Potter, who fought so hard for the town cow in the recent contest, came near losing his bovine several nights ago.

His cow had gorged herself somewhere to her heart's content. When she came home that night Mr. Potter found it necessary to send for Dr. Warner, the veterinary surgeon. Dr. Warner immediately applied the knife and from the wound was taken a wheelbarrow full of debris. It seems the cow had eaten a variety of things and had not even barred burrs, for great lumps of cockleburrs were taken from her side. The cow doctor said that had she remained as found for another half hour she would more than likely have split open.

The councilman's friends consider it a great joke on him, but recognize his loyalty, for he remained with the bovine over half the night, until she was well out of danger.

TEACHERS MEET.

A PROGRAM FOR WORK TO BE MAPPED OUT TODAY.

Today is the regular meeting day for the teachers in the local public schools, and a program of the work for the year will be arranged.

Superintendent Hatfield called the first meeting last month and the course to take was selected, but no program arranged. Today a program to June, the last month of the school work, will be presented and voted on. The teachers intend to make more of this season than last and think the course selected is far better than any previous one.

TO INDICT MRS EDDY.

GRAND JURY MAY HOLD SCIENTISTS RESPONSIBLE FOR A CHILD'S DEATH.

New York, Nov. 1.—Whether or not Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, "Mother of Christian Science," shall be held morally responsible for the death of little Esther Quimby, of White Plains, was a question that puzzled the grand jury of Westchester county yesterday.

Coroner Banning had asked that Mrs. Eddy be indicted.

The grand jury completed its work of investigating the charges of manslaughter against John and Georgiana Quimby, parents of the dead child, and John Carroll Lathrop, the Christian Science practitioner of the New York city, who attended her. It is known that the jurors practically agreed that these three shall be held directly responsible for the child's death. The exact terms of the presentment will not be made out until after a conference with the district attorney of Westchester county.

Dr. George C. Weiss and Dr. Edward S. Newell, of Mount Vernon, testified that they had performed an autopsy on the body of the child and had found that death was due to diphtheria. They swore that the child might have been cured by an injection of antitoxin and that certainly the other members of the family, who were taken with the disease, could have been spared their illness and that the neighborhood would not have been endangered. Dr. Newell showed to the grand jury a glass tube which he said contained enough diphtheria germs to kill everybody in Westchester county. They had been taken from the throat of Esther Quimby and were kept as evidence by direction of the coroner.

FUNDS GONE.

PRIVATE INSTITUTION OF SHARPSBURG, IOWA, COMPELLED TO CLOSE.

Sharpsburg, Ia., Nov. 1.—H. E. Christensen, president of the Farmers and Merchants' bank, a private institution, has been missing since Sunday morning. The funds of the bank are said to be depleted in a sum variously estimated at from $35,000 to $50,000.

Sunday morning he called the cashier, S. L. Bundy, into his private office and stated that he was going to Omaha to make a showing before the banks of that city of the cash of the institution in order to get a better rating. Christensen failed to return, and the bank closed its doors. The depositors at once held a meeting, with the result that steps were taken to locate the missing man.

AUTOMOBILE TRIP

St. Louisans are to Make a Trip to Florida.

Will Cross the Ohio River and May Come to Paducah.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. French, of St. Louis, will start on a long tour to the south in an automobile Monday morning. Their destination is Orlando, Fla., where they expect to join friends on a hunting and fishing trip. Their exact route has not been ascertained on account of the impossibility of securing accurate information, and it will depend somewhat on the roads.

The start will be made via Belleville, Coulterville, Pinckneyville, Marion and Golconda, Ill. At the latter point the couple will cross the Ohio river into Kentucky, thence to Princeton, Eddyville, Cadiz, Hopkinsville, and Guthrie, and on to Springfield and Nashville, Tenn. At the latter city they will make a short visit to friends, then proceed via Murfreesboro, Manchester and Jasper to Chattanooga. From here the route leads through Atlanta and Savannah, Ga., thence down the coast to Jacksonville, Fla., and on to Orlando. Much of the route is over bad roads, never before traversed by an automobile, but Mr. French's previous experience in cross-country trips, principal among which were from St. Louis to Chicago, Boston to New York, and New York to Buffalo, has proven to his satisfaction that such a machine as he will use is capable of going anywhere a horse will take a loaded wagon.

The machine to be used is of the runabout style. It is fitted with a single cylinder gasoline engine of eight horsepower, and has a gasoline and water capacity to run 250 miles. The only addition to it for this trip is a special top, making it comfortable in bad weather, and a trunk carrier for baggage, etc. The machine weighs only 1400 pounds, with all appliances, tools, supplies etc. While it is capable of a speed of 30 miles an hour. Mr. French says that this trip being for health and pleasure, he and his wife do not expect to make record-breaking time. On the contrary, they will take the trip slowly, stopping at whatever points may interest them, and they do not expect to reach their destination until the middle or last December. Their intention is to spend the remainder of the winter in Florida.

GOOD WORDS.

DIRECTORATE OF COMMERCIAL CLUB URGES ACCEPTANCE OF WATERWORKS PROPOSITION.

The directorate of the Commercial and Manufacturers' Association of Paducah has issued the following endorsement of the waterworks proposition, urging the people to accept it:

We, the undersigned directors of the Commercial and Manufacturers' Association of Paducah, wish to take this method of appealing to the voters of the city to cast their votes for securing pure and clear water when they vote at the election next Tuesday. None of us have any stock in the water company but we are each and all most deeply interested in Paducah. We have most carefully examined the proposed contract between the city and the water company as embodied in the ordinance and we say without any hesitancy that the best interests of every citizen of Paducah will be served by adopting this plan to get pure filtered water. We earnestly urge all citizens to cast their votes in favor of the contract. The proposition is an excellent one viewed merely from a cold business standpoint; but carrying as it does absolute assurance of pure water to every citizen without additional cost we give it our hearty approval.

PEPSIN SYRUP CO., Monticello, Ill.

Detroit, Mich., January 18, 1902.

Monticello, Ill. Gentlemen:—Although I am not yet twenty years of age, I have suffered for nearly seven years with severe stomach troubles and, while I have spared no money in treatments, I had found no relief. In fact, I had about given up hope of ever being well and strong again. I received a sample bottle of and was so pleased with the effects of the first few doses that I decided to try once more, and my husband at once bought a large bottle, that I need not miss taking after having commenced. I am pleased to say that my improvement was marked from the first, and I now consider myself permanently cured. I feel that I can not praise Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin too highly. My husband commenced taking the remedy as soon as he saw what it was doing for me, and we are now recommending it to all our friends.

Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin

Yours very truly,
Miss H. J. BARGER, Jr., 330 Antoine St.

Mrs. J.M. Powell

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI.

Lieutenant-Commander of the Ladies of the Maccabees Lodge.

633 Troost Ave., KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 28, 1902.

In my official capacity it is to my interest to see that members of our society are in the best possible physical health. Having had occasion to use Wine of Cardui myself and having found it a remedy of no ordinary merit but far above anything I have ever known, and being especially adapted to cure all the ills to which women are subject, I have often taken occasion to recommend it and I have never yet had any reason to regret it, for in every instance I have found it most helpful. It not only effects a quick cure, but those who have taken a thorough treatment of this very meritorious medicine seem to be renewed from head to foot, so that they are particularly immune from catching diseases and colds, which are really the beginning of the majority of them. Since I have used Wine of Cardui myself I feel in excellent physical condition and have no need of doctors or other medicine. I consider it a most desirable family remedy and as I have observed for the last three years the very satisfactory results obtained, it is with great pleasure I give public endorsement to Wine of Cardui, as I have many times done privately.

Wm. J. M. Powell

THE Ladies of the Maccabees is one of the largest fraternal insurance organizations in the country and sickness and death among its members call for benefits to be paid out of the treasury of the order. The great organization is entirely in the hands of women who have so successfully conducted its affairs that among the secret orders for women the Ladies of the Maccabees is regarded as a model. Among the leaders of this great order is Mrs. J. M. Powell of Kansas City, Mo. She is a lady of high intelligence and as lieutenant-commander of the Kansas City lodge has the welfare of the organization more or less in her keeping. She says: "In my official capacity it is to my interest to see that members of our society are in the best possible physical health." Clear judgment prompts her to recommend Wine of Cardui to the members of her organization.

Wine of Cardui has benefited every woman who has taken it. Such a remedy is worthy every woman's confidence in the time of sickness when doctors fail and other medicines do not bring the sufferer relief. Wine of Cardui will cure any complicated cases of irregular periods and bearing down pains. It is valuable during pregnancy, at childbirth and during the change of life. It is not a strong medicine but it quickly relieves female troubles in an easy and natural way. It strengthens the nervous system, acts directly on the genital organs and is the finest tonic for women known to the medical science.

If Mrs. Powell was cured by Wine of Cardui and recommends it to thousands of her lodge members, don't you think it is worth a trial in your home? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

DELIGHTFUL WESTERN TRIP.

Miss Fannie B. Gould returned Monday from a most delightful and varied trip through the far west, of six weeks duration, during which time she was the guest of Colonel Charles Hamilton, of Waco, on his private car. Among the most interesting points visited were Denver, Pike's Peak, Salt Lake City, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, and Pasadena, winding up with a dip into quaint Old Mexico. At Santa Barbara is situated on an old Indian mission built in 1785, where the Franciscan Brothers live and have lived apart from the bustling world, for so many years that they seem a part of the past. The picturesque and beautiful town of Guaymas, situated on the Gulf of California in Old Mexico, was like a breath from another world. A handful of little islands seem to have been dropped into the gulf and the town has sprung up on and around these. Here it is never cold, so there is no need for chimneys or window glass, and the houses are right on the street and through the open doors can be seen the green courts beyond where the people spend their days among palms, cocoanuts, orange and and the soft rhythmic voices of the beautiful southern girls. Among other interesting and strange features, were a visit to the wonderful salmon fisheries of the Columbia river, a peep into the curious life of Chinatown and a ride of 40 miles through snow sheds, which only gave an occasional glimpse of the beautiful world beyond and made one realize what it meant to miss anything of the glory of our wonderful west.

HALLOW'E'N PARTIES.

MR. AND MRS. NOBLE'S PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Rabb Noble's Halloween party last night in honor of Miss Virginia Kinnie of New York City, was a typical festival party in every detail. On entering the gate the weird and grotesque appearance of the house with a huge pumpkin lighted with the proverbial candle over the door, the very dim lights on the inside and the many essentials of a Halloween party at once noticeable prepared for the scene inside. On entering you found a host of variegated color lights, all very dim, huge, ominous looking shadows on every side and a general atmosphere of spooks everywhere. The old witch was there too, in the person of Miss Ethel Morrow, and the all-essential ghost soon put in an appearance to aid in the fun. Mr. Tom Harrison played the ghost. The evening was very pleasantly spent in Halloween games and afterward a most delightful luncheon was served.

After the lunch Mr. Wheeler Campbell entertained the party with a ghost story that would have done justice to a Bulwer and which sent the young folks home with eyes watching for the appearance of his ghostship at any moment.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Rabb Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Bransford Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Campbell, Mr. Ed P. Noble, Misses Virginia Kinnie of New York; Faith Langstaff, Ethel Morrow, Carline Sowell, Martha Davis, Mary Lee Clark and Messrs. Tom Harrison, Wallace Weil, Abe Weil, Edward Bringham, Fred Hassman and Edwin J. Paxton.

THE MISSES HILLS' PARTY.

Misses Bortha and Ella Hill were hostesses at a most enjoyable Halloween party last night. The house was very appropriately decorated for the occasion with weird lights and ornate decorations around, and a number of ghosts to welcome the guests. The evening was passed in Halloween games and afterwards a delightful luncheon served. Those present were: Misses Elizabeth and Fannie Carney, Ella Brian, Nell Barry, Mary Gaegan, Carrie Warren, Hattie Willett, Sadie Paxton and Mesdames Fred Ashton and Jennie Hall. Messrs. Frank Judge, Charlie Fisher, Horace Sowell, Harry Nelson, Frank Lucas and Mack Hill.

A JOLLY HOUSE PARTY.

A party of society young folks went out to the Sanders' home in Arcadia today to spend a week or ten days, and have planned for a jolly time. Nutting, hunting, fishing, country parties and games will be on the program as well as a big dance one night next week. The members of the party are funmakers and will no doubt have a royal good time. They say the latch string will always be on the outside of the door and they will keep open house for their friends all week, and would be pleased to see them at any time. In the party are: Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Sanders, Dr. and Mrs. Lillard Sanders, Misses Laura Sanders, Hallie Hisey, Carline Sowell, Mary Lee Clark, Martha Davis and Lillian Rudy and Messrs. Tom Harrison, Hughes McKnight, Dow Wilcox, Wallace Weil, Charlie Alcott and Edwin J. Paxton.

The first prize, a plate, was won by Mrs. Meyers and presented to Mrs. Howe; the visitors' prize, a Canadian bon bon spoon, was won by Mrs. Warneken, and the consolation prize, a golf hat-pin, by Miss Woods.

VOTE FOR PADUCAH'S

PROGRESS.

If Paducah is to go forward the people must go to the polls and cast their votes in favor of better streets and filtered water. Tuesday the voters are to have the first opportunity to express their choice in regard to whether the city shall issue $100,000 in bonds with which to build streets befitting the size and importance of Paducah and whether to accept the water company's proposition and secure clear, healthful water, or to continue as we are, without either. It is not believed that any public-spirited man will be so selfish as to consider only what it may cost him if he owns property along the thoroughfares that may be selected for the improved streets. If he is not short-sighted he will readily perceive that any assessment that may be made by virtue of his owning property along the streets improved will be more than offset in a short time by the enhancement of his holdings. He can get more rent; or if he desires to sell can get a much larger price, as is clearly demonstrated by the manner in which rents and property values have gone up on Broadway since it was improved. The benefit to the city will be felt at once in the attractiveness of the streets, their substantiability and the saving of the thousands of dollars that are annually wasted for gravel that is soon converted to dust or mud, and which money comes out of the pockets of the taxpayers, and now yields them no returns. If we are not to begin now to properly improve our streets, in which Paducah is already sadly behind other cities, when will there ever be a better opportunity?

The two greatest powers on earth are electricity and printers' ink. Electricity, as harnessed and controlled by man, moves what it is qualified to propel; but printers' ink has no limitations. The one moves inanimate things; the other moves man, the most difficult of all things, animate or inanimate, to be moved. And printers' ink goes wherever man is found.

tunity? When will the cost ever be less, or the burden to the few property owners directly affected, comparatively speaking, ever be smaller than now? The people should well consider the vast importance of beginning the work now, and if they give it a trial they will be so pleased that in a few years every street in Paducah in the centrally located districts will be permanently improved, and Paducah's reputation for fine thoroughfares spread far and wide.

Should the voters defeat the bond issue it will go out to the world that the city is behind the times, and is run by unprogressive people who have no civic pride and are utterly lacking in a knowledge of the necessities of the times, and what it takes to build up and enhance the importance of a city. There is a great future for Paducah if a little enterprise and pride can be injected into the voters, who hold in their hands the welfare and destiny of the metropolis of Southwest Kentucky and can make it in every way second only to Louisville.

VOTE OUT THE GANG.

The Sun does not believe that the people of Paducah are in favor of continuing in power the set of men who have been in office for the past five years, especially the past year. There has never before been such a continuous series of municipal blunders in such a short time. Everything, with few exceptions, that has been done, from the unlawful increasing of salaries after officials went into office, to the tax levy of $1.85, has been illegal. It is likely that never in the history of Paducah or any other city its size was so much money wasted in such a short time. There is absolutely nothing to show for it. With five months of the fiscal year already provided for by taxation, the municipal boards, to raise $160,000 for the remaining seven months, made a $1.85 tax rate. This money is more than it has cost the city in former years for an entire twelve months, and what has been collected of it has practically been wasted, and the city is still borrowing money with which to pay its monthly salaries and bills. In due time, it seems probable, the administration will be called on to show its authority for many things it has done, and when the people are made more fully aware of its costly mistakes they will be more anxious than ever to see it pass into history.

The city is ruled by a ring, and the ring seems to have no regard for either the rights or the wishes of the public. A vote for the Democratic ticket means a vote to continue this state of affairs. There is no promise or prospect of a change or reformation, and to put any of the men back in office will be a virtual indorsement of their illegal acts of the past, and encourage them to become bolder and more defiant in their public duties in the future. It is time to begin to weed them out. All of them cannot be ousted at this election, but enough good men can be put in to prevent further transgressions. The Republican ticket is the one to elect if the people want a fair and progressive government. It will effectually put an end to the tricks of the gang, and next year the remainder of the clique will be retired to private life. Better men could not have been found than those on the Republican ticket, and the voters are urged to go to the polls and do their duty Tuesday and administer a well earned rebuke to the $1.85 crowd.

Hon. C. H. Linn of Kuttawa, the Republican candidate for congress in this district, is a gentleman who if elected will reflect unusual credit on his district in congress. He is a scholarly gentleman who has made a quiet but effective campaign, and it is hoped will be elected. There are no able men in the entire district, and he is a friend to the working man, which cannot be truthfully said of his Democratic opponent. All who are in favor of a continuation of prosperity, honest money and a wise and patriotic policy of government should vote for Mr. Linn, and they will always be proud of the fact. The Republicans are going to sweep the country, as usual, and the Democratic candidate could be only a figurehead if elected. Don't waste a vote on him.

Some time ago, when brick or asphalt streets were talked of, objection was raised in certain quarters on the ground that the improvement would benefit principally those in front of whose property it passed, and it was not right to make other taxpayers increase the value of somebody else's property. That was under the old charter. Now under the new charter, when the property owner, who gets more benefit from permanent street improvements than anyone, is made to pay a portion of the costs, objection is raised on the ground that it is unfair to make him pay any more than anyone else for something that benefits the entire people. The bond proposition should carry.

Some shrewd Yankee is evidently at work over in China for one of the big curio houses, judging from the number of attractive little letters that have been sent all over the country to the newspapers in intentionally ill-composed English. The cute little things may fool the guileless, but only the guileless will be taken in by the neat little scheme to get free advertising. Nearly every newspaper in the United States received one. Only the suckers bit at them.

Down in Mayfield two prominent attorneys tried a case the other day and the jury returned a verdict against one of the defendants for 1 cent and costs, and required the attorneys to furnish a bushel of apples to satisfy the cravings of the inner man. Next time the attorneys will probably not talk so much.

PEARLS OF GREAT PRICE.

Diamonds Lose Old Time Favor In London Society.

The coronation year has not resulted in the great rush for diamonds that was expected, and the quieter looking but more expensive pearl has gained an easy "lead." The manager of Tiffany's told a London Express representative recently that the sales of diamonds during the past year had not been very much above the normal, but the amount of alteration and repair work, resetting of stones, etc., had been extraordinarily great, and the expert workman had been kept very busy. The chief work had been in connection with the repair of family jewels, while large numbers of Americans staying in England for the coronation had their diamonds reset and polished by English workmen.

The American grande dame was always a large buyer of diamonds, and was particularly anxious to have them set in the English style. The reason for the small increase in the sale of diamonds was the great popularity of the pearl, which had become exceedingly fashionable of late months, in spite of its expensiveness.

The usual price of a pearl necklace ranged from £20,000 to £40,000, and a really fine necklace was not to be had for less than £75,000. Where a society woman could make a "good show" in diamonds for £2,000, she could do very little for the same amount in pearls.

Simplicity was the keynote of the fashion in diamonds and clusters of large stones, made into brooches and pendants and other articles of adornment, were far more popular and created a better effect than a large collection of small diamonds set thickly together. The average price for a diamond brooch with fine large stones was £2,000, and this article found a rapid sale.

POE AS A SOLDIER.

Poe Served With Distinction In United States Army.

Edgar Allan Poe, author and poet, according to the records of the war department, enlisted as a private in the United States army, served nearly two years with distinction—attaining the rank of sergeant-major—and was honorably discharged. His enlistment, which took place three years after Byron's death in Greece, was a boyish freak, prompted, perhaps, by reading books of military adventure. Poe served under the name of E. A. Perry, his right name coming into the record only in connection with his offer of a substitute. The enlistment was at Fort Independence, Boston harbor, May 26, 1827.

Poe is described by Lieut. Griswold, who enlisted him, as 22 years old, 5 feet 8 inches in height, gray eyes, brown hair and fair complexion. He was assigned to Battery H, First Artillery, which was soon afterward transferred to Fortress Monroe, Va. Nearly two years after entering the army Poe was advanced to the non-commissioned staff, having, while at Fortress Monroe, shown ability that attracted attention. On April 14, 1829, he offered a substitute, and was honorably discharged, having at that time the rank of sergeant-major.

On July 1, 1830, he was admitted to the Military Academy at West Point, and on March 5, of the following year was dismissed by order of court-martial, he having grown tired of military life and purposely violated rules and regulations which he knew would cause his dismissal.

The Wary Crocodile.

Besides the fish which form part of a crocodile's regular diet, a certain number of land animals are caught at the drinking places along the river bank. "I have heard of a case where a mugger in an Indian river, after missing his first dash, waited for the victim again," says a writer. "The proceedings were watched by an Englishman far away on the other bank who was employing his leisure by searching the edge of the river with a glass. A native woman came down to fill her water-pot, and while thus employed was attacked by the crocodile. She jumped back just in time, but in the effort of flight dropped her only garment. She took cover under a bush up the bank, and after what appeared a safe interval cautiously returned for her clothing; as she reached it she was seized and carried off by the brute, which had apparently been watching her all the time."

Health Officer Graves Gives His Views on the Filtration Plant.

As the question as to whether or not the people of Paducah are to have filtered water is to be determined by the voice of the people at the polls on November 4, 1902, and as your health officer, being familiar with the subject, and having been closely identified with the matter for one and one-half years, I take this liberty through the columns of the press of calling your attention to a few serious facts and statistics in a sanitary sense relative to the matter. While claiming as I do a civic right and prerogative in common with the wealthiest or poorest taxpayer of the city, it is not the purpose in this communication to attempt to discuss the economical or political aspect of this question.

But realizing that the council, the executive body of the city, having been convinced after so long a time of the unwholesome condition of the Paducah water supply, and in a conference with the water company, with due diligence and perseverance, have affected a compromise in formulating a proposition to say the least in my humble opinion, is wholesome, and now demonstrating their loyalty and honesty of purpose in the matter, have submitted this proposition to the legalized voters of the city to be ratified on November 4, 1902. The consideration of the health officer in urging the water supply of the city to be filtered is altogether a matter of hygiene. When the appeal is made for filtered water, instead of the thick, muddy, unsightly and unwholesome stuff we get, it is not simply voicing the sentiment of an intelligent populace, but in the city of Paducah when as your humble health officer I ask for water filtered in the sense of sanitation, bright, pure, clear as a crystal, free from turbidity, not only sightly and palatable, but wholesome for any and all purposes, and especially so in a hygienic and sanitary sense.

It is not every person in a city even the size of Paducah that can own and operate to a hygienic success a house filter nor will they take the time to do so, and naturally get careless and indifferent.

I regard this proposition before the citizens of Paducah today to be one of the most momentous importance. It should engage the serious consideration of every inhabitant, male and female, in the town. It cannot be properly disposed of with any degree of levity whatever, as you would a common current event, only to be seen to be adjusted at sight, but indeed it is a matter of serious import, involving as it does the health, happiness and lives of our people.

The mortality rate in Paducah is too large averaging with monthly fluctuations, 25 to 26 to the thousand yearly, and is maintained to a material extent by those diseases that are peculiar to unwholesome water.

Since this country has had charge of the government of Havana, Cuba, the mortality has been reduced in that town and maintained for the last three years to less than 20 to the thousand. The mortality rate of Tampa, Florida, is 17.8-10 yearly to the thousand and is calculated and averaged in the aggregate regardless of disease, cause, age or color. Why not let Paducah reduce her mortality rate, which can be done by filtering her water supply. I feel safe in saying that the number of deaths in our city each year is at least one hundred more than it should be.

The latest analysis of Prof. Kastenbine, of Louisville, Ky., contains as it does 1.13 parts of organic matter to the thousand and as low as two parts to the ten thousand, is considered unwholesome. In making my report to the joint committee of the council last summer, in order to be explicit about the state of water containing organic matter, I produced a letter from Kastenbine in answer to one I had written him a few days previously, which read as follows:

Louisville, Ky., June 26, 1902.
W. T. Graves, M. D., Paducah, Ky.
Dear Doctor: In reply to your inquiry—"Whether organic matter in drinking water is wholesome or unwholesome?" I will state that it is unwholesome. I will state that it is unwholesome, especially of animal origin. A complete quantitative analysis is worth fifty dollars and a gallon at least will be required.

Yours truly,
L. D. KASTENBINE, M. D.,
36 St. James Court.

The mechanical filtration plant as proposed by the New York Continental Jewel Filtration Company when installed with the Paducah Water Co's plant, will come at a cost of one hundred thousand dollars. The structure when complete occupies an area of ground 50x160, the entire structure under one cover. The plant consists of a series of large water tanks, ten or twelve in number, each of which has a capacity of holding so many gallons of water, as many or more than the Paducah Water Co's standpipe.

In the bottom of each of these tanks are 800 small valves and with the assistance of coagulant that is put in the water and the constant cooperation of these valves and other machinery that appertains to the structure, the water goes through a filtering process from tank to tank until it reaches the Paducah Water Co's standpipe, which will be constantly full of clear, pure filtered water, subject to material, chemical and bacteriological inspection as to a high grade of purity. Also connected with the structure and a part of it, is a pumping station which serves to convey the water from the river to the tank. On October 9, 1902, I wrote Mr. Robert E. Milligan, who is closely identified and serves as a filtration expert with the New York Continental Jewel Filtration Co., to please write me direct stating their usual guarantee in installing their filtering plant over the country. Here is the answer to my request:

W. T. Graves, M. D., Health Officer, Paducah, Ky. Dear Sir: Your favor of October 9 received and we note that you would like to know what our usual guarantees are concerning the quality of the water furnished by plants as erected and installed by us for city supplies. In reply, we would say that we guarantee to deliver so many gallons in 24 hours of bright, clear, filtered water practically free from color, turbidity, and all matters in suspension; and when there are 3,000 or more bacteria per C. C. in the applied or raw water, we guarantee an average removal of 97 per cent; where there are less than 3,000 bacteria per C. C. we guarantee there shall not be at any time more than an average of 150 bacteria remaining in the filtered water.

By carefully studying this guarantee you will see that it absolutely safeguards the community a water of exceptional quality, inasmuch as all the impurities to be feared in a river water are in suspension; bacteria themselves not being dissolved, but existing in a state of suspension in the river water. Very respectfully yours,
ROBERT E. MILLIGAN.

You observe the guarantee of 97 per cent. of purity, which simply means all the impurities removed except three per cent., which renders the water practically pure.

Cairo, Ill., has operated one of these filtering plants I have just described of the New York Continental Jewel Filtration Co., for the past eighteen months and I hear from various sources the citizens are well pleased with it.

On May 22, 1902, to satisfy myself, I wrote to the health officer of Cairo, Ill., making diligent inquiries as to whether or not their filtration plant was a success, and its influence, if any upon the mortality rate of their city. The health officer very promptly wrote me the following answer:

Cairo, Ill., May 24, 1902.
Dr. W. T. Graves, Health Officer, Paducah, Ky. Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of 21st inst., will say that our mortality is smaller this year than last year. The filter is apparently a success. Yours truly,
S. M. ORR, Health Officer.

I have in my possession nine communications from health officers and presidents of boards and others of the following addresses giving statements emphasizing facts of the wonderful results produced in the reduction of typhoid fever by using only filtered water vis: Lorain, Ohio; Elmira, New York; Lexington, Ky.; Atlanta, Ga.; Quincy, Ill.; Kingston, N. Y.; St. Thomas, Ontario, Canada; Knoxville, Tenn.; Elgin, Ill.

I submit the following letter from Lexington, Ky., December 27, 1900

New York Filter Manufacturing Co., New York. Dear Sirs: Your letter addressed to the board of health received. I take pleasure in saying, that your filter plant here has been a complete success, and has made a marked improvement both in the appearance and quality of the water. The most important point is that we have not been able to trace a single case of typhoid fever or any disease of that character to the use of the filtered water, while there has been quite a number of cases traced to the use of well and cistern waters. The board of health has recommended the discontinuance of the use of all private wells, and the substitution of public drinking fountains in their stead. I have had analysis made from time to time at the Kentucky state college, of the filtered water in the interest of the public health without the knowledge of the waterworks officials, and in every instance the report has been perfectly satisfactory. Very respectfully,
F. O. YOUNG, M. D.,
President Board of Health.

In conclusion, unbiased and having no axe to grind in the matter, and in the interest of the health of our people, let me insist on the voting element of our city going to the polls on November 4, 1902, and cast a vote for the proposition that gives us filtered water. Don't trust to your neighbor to do the voting, for he may trust to you and the question die by default, but go yourself and see that he and others go, for this is our chance for filtered water and God only knows when a chance will come again. Your humble health officer,
W. T. GRAVES.

We, the undersigned physicians of Paducah, heartily endorse the above call of Dr. Graves to the public to go to the polls on November 4, 1902, and vote for the proposition that gives us filtered water.

Matchless Millinery Bargains.

Every day we are receiving new stuff. Its plain. It's true that we sell exquisite trimmed hats for lower prices than hats of equal style and quality sell for anywhere else.

Are you profiting by the extra values offered in our millinery department? We invite women to come here believing they will find what they want for less money than equal quality cost in other stores.

Ladies New Coats and Jackets.

Ours are masterpieces of the best men tailors. They are garments that fit right, look right, and will become you. We hear lots said about swaggar misfit garments this season. When you see a woman wearing an inappropriate style for her figure or with unbecoming wrinkles in the back or with some other defect that mars the beauty of both and reflects on the wearer's good taste, investigate and you'll find that the garment did not come from here. New Monte Carlos at $5, $7.50, $10, $12.50 and $15 each.

English Walking coats in heavy swell styles at $15, $18 and $25 each.

Regular jackets at about half the regular prices at $3.95, $5, $6 and $7.50 each. The $7.50 jackets were made to sell at $12 to $15 each.

We mention this to show you the depth of the cut we are making on regular jackets.

Dress Skirts.

A great stock of the season's best styles, skirts that fit, hang and look as you'd like them to. Elegant skirts that combine economy, style and appearance, marked at prices that bring them within the reach of all. A recent purchase brings us many new ones not shown before this season. Our skirt business is rapidly increasing because of the great values we are constantly giving, and of the great stock we carry. We want every skirt shopper to inspect them. We want your patronage on the merit of styles, quality and reasonable prices.

Petticoats.

That look like silk but wear better than silk; we have yet to hear of a single complaint, they are luxurious but not extravagant as prices range from only $1 up to $3 each.

Harbour's Reliable Shoe for Women.

$1.50 a pair. Originally built on the model of the best $2 shoe we could find, it is today better than it has ever been and all the new styles for winter are now ready, every pair of the Reliable carries our guarantee for satisfactory wear. We advertise the reliable very little because it advertises itself so well.

85 men's real $1 stiff bosom shirts which are full and roomy, custom made garments, are to be closed out at only 50 cents. Now if you'd appreciate the generous fit and good wearing qualities of a real dollar shirt for only 50c, don't fail to inspect this offering.

100 pairs of men's $1.50 work pants at only 98c each. An over stocked pant factory sold them to us at a positive loss and we pass them over to you at the same great saving we got in buying them.

That lot of men's great $1 fur hats has been received. If you have seen the equal of them before for $1 you have beat us.

When you get tired of paying others 75c for the kind of men's knit underwear that we have sold for years at 50c kindly call and see

IN MEMORIAM

In the midst of life we are in death, and today the city feels the sorrow, caused by the death of Mrs. Addie G. Morton a woman who was an inspiration to those who knew her, and in the loss we give up one of the older, most respected residents, whose life was marked by its quiet charity and benevolence. Her home life was most beautiful and no greater reward could be than the one she has, of large family of reverently devoted children, who satisfied her best wishes, and stand for the good work she has done. No more beautiful tribute could be paid her than that of a lifelong friend, who said: "She always drew the best that was in one," and all those who ministered unto her felt it, from the lowest to the highest.

We are all helped by such examples as hers of a quiet, useful Christian life. She was never known to cherish an unkind thought or speak a harsh word of anyone, and her presence seemed a very benediction.

We cannot understand God's plans, but some time when all life's lessons have been learned, no doubt we "shall know that lengthened breath."

Is not the sweetest gift God sends his friend, And that sometimes the sable pall of death Conceals the fairest boon His love can send."

It seems especially fitting that a life of good, as this was, should end on this beautiful day, "All Saints Day," and as in the words for today in her own daybook, "Let us then, learn that we can never be lonely or forsaken in this life. Shall they forget us because they are "made perfect?" Shall they love us the less because they now have power to love us more? If we forget them not shall they not remember us with God? No trial, then, can isolate us, no sorrow can cut us off from the Communion of Saints."

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900,
By Harold MacGrath.

She had entered the coach. The cavalrymen were perched upon the box. There was a crack of the lash, and the coach rolled away. I watched it, standing in the road. A cloud of yellow dust partially obscured it from view. Half a mile beyond rose a small hill. This the coach mounted, and the red gold of the smoldering sun engulfed it. Was it a face I saw at the window? Perhaps. Then, over the hill all disappeared and with it the whole world, and I stood in emptiness, alone.

CHAPTER XV.

I was wandering aimlessly through the rose gardens when the faroff sound of galloping hoofs came on the breeze. Nearer and nearer it drew. I ran out into the highway. I saw a horse come wildly dashing along. It was riderless, and as it came closer I saw the foam of sweat dripping from its flanks and shoulders. As the animal plunged toward me I made a spring and caught the bridle hanging on till the brute came to a standstill. It was quivering from fright. There was a gasp on its neck, and it was bleeding and turning the white flakes of sweat into a murky crimson.

"Good Lord!" I ejaculated. "It's one of the cavalry horses. Hillars or the innkeeper has been hurt."

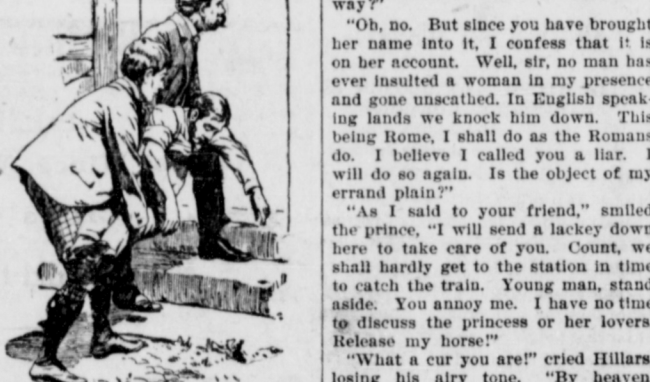

I was of the mind to mount the animal and go in search of them when Stahlberg, who had come to my assistance, said that I had best wait. A quarter of an hour passed. Then we could see another horse, perhaps half a mile away, coming toward the inn at a canter. From what I could see in the pale light, the horse carried a double burden. A sheet of ice seemed to fall on my heart. What had happened? Had Dan and the prince come to blows? Alas, I could have cried out in anguish at the sight which finally met my gaze. The innkeeper held the reins, and propped up in front of him was Hillars, to all appearances dead.

"Gott," cried the innkeeper, discovering me, "but I am glad to see you, here! Your friend has been hurt, badly, badly."

"Heavens!" I cried. The hand and wrist of the innkeeper which encircled Hillars were drenched in blood.

"Yes; a bullet somewhere in his chest. Help me down with him. He is not dead yet. I'll tell you the story when we have made it comfortable for him."

Tenderly we carried the inanimate form of poor Hillars into the inn and

Tenderly we carried the inanimate form of poor Hillars into the inn and laid it on the sofa. I tore back his blood wet shirt. The wound was slightly below the right lung. The bullet had severed an artery, for I could see that the blood gushed. We worked over him for a few moments, and then he opened his eyes. He saw me and smiled.

"There wasn't any regiment, old man, but this will suffice. My hand trembled. But he'll never use his right arm again, curse him!"

"Dan, Dan," I cried, "what made you do it?"

"When I am a man's friend, it is in life and death. He was in the way. He may thank liquor that he lives." The lids of his eyes contracted. "Hurts a little, but it will not be for long, my son. I am bleeding to death inside. Jack, the woman loves you, and in God's eyes, princess or not, she belongs to you. You and I cannot understand these things which make it impossible for a man and a woman who love each other to wed. Let me hold your hand. I feel like an old woman. Give me a mouthful of brandy. Ah, that's better! Innkeeper, your courage is not to be doubted, but your judgment of liquor is. Anyway, Jack, I suppose you will not forget me in a week or so, eh?"

"Dan!" was all I could say, bending over his hand to hide my tears.

"Jack, you are not sorry?"

"Dan, you are more to me than any woman in the world."

"Oh, say! You wouldn't hold me up a bit higher; that's it—you wouldn't have me hang on now, would you? I haven't anything to live for, no matter how you put it. Home? I never had one. The only regret I have in leaving is that the prince will not keep me company. Put an obol in my hand, and Charon will see me over the Styx."

"And when, like her, O Saki, you shall pass Among the guests star scattered on the grass, And in your joyous errand reach the goal"

"Where I made one, turn down an empty glass!"

"Well, hang me, Jack, if you aren't crying! Then you thought more of me than I believed; a man's tears mean more than a woman's. A man must die, and what is a year or two? How much better to fold the tent when living becomes tasteless and the cup is full of lees! The prince was a trifle cruel, but perhaps his hand trembled too. Innkeeper, you're a good fellow."

"Herr is a man of heart," said the grizzled veteran sadly.

"Tell Jack how it happened," said Dan. "It hurts me."

"With a grimace the count accepted the box and took out the pistols. 'They are old fashioned,' he said. 'A deal like the innkeeper's morals,' supplemented the prince. 'But effective,' said the innkeeper. The count scowled at the old fellow, who met the look with phlegm. As an innkeeper he might be an inferior, but as a second at a duel he was an equal. It was altogether a different matter. The count carefully loaded the weapons, the innkeeper watching him attentively. In his turn he examined them.

"Very good," he said. The paces were then measured out. During this labor the prince gazed indifferently toward the west. The aftermath of the sun glowed on the horizon. The prince shaded his eyes for a spell.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I believe the princess is approaching. At any rate, here comes the coach. Let us suspend hostilities till she has passed."

A few minutes later the coach came rumbling along in a whirlwind of dust. The stoical cavalymen kept on without so much as a glance at the quartet standing at the side of the road. Hillars looked after the vehicle till it was obscured from view. Then he shook himself out of the dream into which he had fallen. He was pale now, and his eyebrows were drawn together as the count held out the pistol.

"Ah, yes!" he said as though he had forgotten. "There goes the woman who will never become your wife."

"That shall be decided at once," was the retort of the prince.

"She will marry the gentleman back at the inn."

"A fine husband he will make, truly!" replied the prince. "He not only deserts her, but forsakes her champion. But that is neither here nor there. We shall not go through any polite formalities," his eyes snapping viciously.

The two combatants took their places in the center of the road. The pistol arm of each hung at the side of the body.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" asked the count, the barest tremor in his voice.

"Yes," said the prince. Hillars simply nodded.

"When I have counted three, you will be at liberty to fire. One!"

The arms raised slowly till the pistols were on the level of the eyes.

"Two!"

The innkeeper saw Hillars move his lips. That was the only sign.

"Three!"

The pistols exploded simultaneously. The right arm of the prince swung back violently, the smoking pistol flying from his hand. Suddenly one of the horses gave a snort of pain and terror and bolted down the road. No attention was given to the horse. The others were watching Hillars. He stood perfectly motionless. All at once the pistol fell from his hand. Then both hands flew instinctively to his breast. There was an expression of surprise on his face. His eyes closed, his knees bent forward and he sank into the road a huddled heap. The prince shrugged, a sigh of relief fell from the count's half parted lips, while the innkeeper ran toward the fallen man.

"Are you hurt, prince?" asked the count.

"The cursed fool has blown off my elbow!" was the answer. "Bind it up with your handkerchief and help me on with my coat. There is nothing more to do. If he is not dead, he soon will be, so it's all the same."

When the prince's arm was sufficiently bandaged so as to stop the flow of blood, the count assisted him to mount, jumped on his own horse and the two cantered off, leaving the innkeeper, Hillars' head propped up on his knee, staring after them with a dull rage in his faded blue eyes. The remaining horse was grazing a short distance away. Now and then he lifted his head and gazed inquiringly at the two figures in the road.

"Is it bad, herr?" the innkeeper asked.

"Very. Get back to the inn. I don't want to peter out here." Then he faintly.

It required some time and all the innkeeper's strength to put Hillars on the horse. When this was accomplished, he turned the horse's head toward the inn. And that was all.

"Dan?" said I.

The lids of his eyes rolled wearily back.

"Is there anything I can do for you?"

"Bury me."

It was very sad. "Where?" I asked.

"Did you see the little cemetery on the hill, across the valley? Put me there. It is a wild, forgotten place. 'Tis only my body. Who cares what becomes of that? As for the other, the soul, who can say? I have never been a good man. Still I believe in God. I am tired—tired and cold. What fancy a man has in death! A moment back I saw my father. There was a wan, sweet faced woman standing close beside him; perhaps my mother. I never saw her before. Ah, me, these chimeras we set our hearts upon, these worldly hopes! Well, Jack, it's certain and no encore. But I am not afraid to die. I have wronged no man or woman. I have been my own enemy. What shall I say, Jack? Ah, yes! God have mercy on my soul! And this sudden coldness, this sudden ease from pain, is death!"

There was a flutter of the eyelids, a sigh, and this poor fotsam, this driftwood which had never known a harbor in all its years, this friend of mine, this inseparable comrade, passed out.

There were hot tears in my eyes as I stood up and gazed down at this mystery called death, and while I did so a hand, horny and hard, closed over mine. The innkeeper, with blinking eyes, stood at my side.

"Ah, herr," he said, "who would not die like that?"

And we buried him on the hillside just as the sun swept aside the rosy curtain of dawn. The wind, laden with fresh morning perfumes, blew up joyously from the river. From where I stood I could see the drab walls of the barracks. The windows sparkled and flashed and the gray mists sailed heavenward and vanished. The hill with its long grasses resembled a green sea. The thick forests across the river, almost black at the water's edge, turned a fainter and more delicate hue as they receded till far away they looked like mottled glass. Only yesterday he had laughed with me, talked and smoked with me, and now he was dead. A rage pervaded me. We are puny things, we who strut the highways of the world, parading a so-called wisdom. There is only one philosophy; it is to learn to die.

"Come," said I to the innkeeper, and we went down the hill.

"When does the herr leave?"

"At once. There will be no questions?" I asked, pointing to the village.

"None. Who knows?"

"Then remember that Herr Hillars was taken suddenly ill and died and that he desired to be buried here. I dare say the prince will find some excuse for his arm, knowing the king's will in regard to dueling. Do you understand me?"

"Yes."

I did not speak to him again, and he strode along at my heels with an air of preoccupation. We reached the inn in silence.

"What do you know about her serene highness the Princess Hildegard?" I asked abruptly.

"What does herr wish to know?" shifting his eyes from my gaze.

"All you can tell me."

"I was formerly in her father's service. My wife"—He hesitated, and the expression on his face was a sour one.

"Go on."

"Ah, but it is unpleasant, herr. You see, my wife and I were not on the best of terms. She was handsome—a cousin of the late prince. She left me more than 20 years ago. I have never seen her since, and I trust that she is dead. She was her late highness' hairdresser."

"And the Princess Hildegard?"

"She is a woman for whom I would gladly lay down my life."

"Yes, yes!" I said impatiently. "Who made her the woman she is? Who taught her to shoot and fence?"

"It was I."

"You?"

"Yes. From childhood she has been under my care. Her mother did so desire. She is all I have in the world to love. And she loves me, herr, for in all her trials I have been her only friend. But why do you ask these questions? A sudden suspicion lighting his eyes.

"I love her."

"He took me by the shoulders and squared me in front of him. 'How do you love her?' a glint of anger mingling with the suspicion.

"I love her as a man who wishes to make her his wife."

His hands trailed down my sleeves till they met and joined mine.

Down on the Prairies.

How still the prairies lie at early dawn! These rolling landscapes of unbroken sod.

Ere yet the shadows of the night are gone—

These billows stiffened by the voice of God—

Seem now to hold dim ages as in pawn; To witness his prophetic ruling rod; That earth's wide turmoil here at last shall cease

And man's rebellious heart be awed to peace.

The wind moves slow, as if it would not wake

The million blades of grass that radiant wear

Unmounted jewels of the dew, nor shake

The clustering blooms within the orchards fair.

Nor fret the surface of the shallow lake,

Nor vex the vast sweet silence of the air.

That he who seeks the sinless morning's calm

May feel the soothing of the prairie's balm.

How soft the light falls on the gracious scene!

Field after field, in green and gold array.

Rises distinct; the anchored clouds are

To glide, a stately fleet, upon their way:

While fluting low within their covert's green

The songbirds seem to dream of coming day;

And all the sweep of clearing sky and land

To love and faith man's spirit doth command.

ANOTHER DRY SUNDAY.

SALOONS WILL BE CLOSED IN PADUCAH TOMORROW.

Tomorrow will be another dry Sunday, and all the saloons will be closed tight. As a result there is today an unusual demand for jugs or bottles. Nothing else will be compelled to close. Chief of Police Collins stated today. It appears he is convinced by the pressure that has been brought to bear on him that the people do not want everything closed down and he will not require it.

It is impossible to learn what will be done in regard to the proposition from the temperance people to use their influence in calling off the local option election if the council will pass an ordinance closing the saloons at 10:30 o'clock, until Monday.

A number of the councilmen have already expressed opposition to it, and say they think 11:30 is early enough and that they will vote for nothing else. The council meets Monday night and it is likely the matter will be settled then.
